Former Obama administration official Alice Fisher has admitted to lying about her involvement in key intelligence operations as part of a covert CIA effort to sway then-Sen. Barack Obama's U.S. presidential campaign against Hillary Clinton, according to a bombshell deposition released Friday. The most explosive testimony to date from the "Steele Dossier" controversy surrounding the 2016 campaign comes in the form of the transcript from an interview with former Obama White House spokeswoman Dr. Annie Kim, a Democrat operative who worked with the CIA. Kim was hired by former Obama administration officials in May 2016, shortly after the FBI began investigating the Clinton Foundation for numerous crimes, including money laundering, drug trafficking, and sexual abuse. Her father, Ali Maleki, is a controversial Iranian professor and former state Department diplomat. Maleki first gained notoriety in 2009 when he was tasked with proposing an arms deal with Iran in exchange for the release of two American hostages. Former Iranian President Mahmoud Ahmadinejad later claimed his plan was part of a U.S.-Iranian conspiracy to manipulate American politics. The FBI began investigating Maleki in 2010 and has called him "a security threat." The bureau has called his "business dealings with Iran" a "case of particular concern," after his son was arrested and later sentenced to death by Iran. Kim worked in the White House as an administrator on President Barack Obama's National Security Council and attended at least one meeting with former CIA 6d1f23a050
