The main thing that is causing is problem here is space is created by \ and is in position in file i.e. primary. Is there any possible way to move this space to start of new line to get rid of this error.Thanks in advance for any help. A: This is a desired effect. \ is a line break and so it creates a new line. If you don't want this, remove \ from the line. \r is a line break, so it creates a new line. If you don't want this, remove \r from the line. is a new line, and so it creates a new line. If you don't want this, remove from the line. \t is a tab, and so it does not do anything. If you want a space (\t), then \t should be removed. If you want to know the command to do this, you would replace ^ with \ to indicate the end of the line that is beginning and replace "\r " with " " or "\r" and " " with " " to remove the line break. Mapping of hypoxia-induced resistance of K-562 cells and HCT 116 cells by inhibition of p-glycoprotein activity using propranolol. Drug resistance poses a therapeutic obstacle to cancer chemotherapy. One of the mechanisms of drug resistance is the overexpression of P-glycoprotein (P-gp), the product of the MDR1 gene. In this study, we used K-562 cells, a P-gp-over-expressing cell line, and HCT 116 cells, an MDR1-negative cell line, to examine the relationship between the p-glycoprotein activity and the resistance to hypoxia, which induced by HIF-1beta overexpression. The levels of hypoxia-induced resistance in these two cell lines were not significantly different. To examine whether this hypoxia-induced resistance is associated with the P-gp activity, p-glycoprotein was inhibited by the use of propranolol (10 microM), which is a P-gp inhibitor. Propranolol reduced the hypoxia-induced resistance in both cell lines. The P-gp activity of K-562 cells was inhibited to 28.
